this volume explores questions of rebuilding governance in post conflict societies from an interdisciplinary perspective focusing on three interconnected gaps that arise in fragile states deficits in legitimacy effectiveness and security when the guns are silenced those who have survived armed conflict need food water shelter the means to earn a living and the promise of safety and a return to civil order meeting these needs while sustaining peace requires more than simply having governmental structures in place it requires good governance natural resources are essential to sustaining people and peace in post conflict countries but governance failures often jeopardize such efforts this book examines the theory practice and often surprising realities of post conflict governance natural resource management and peacebuilding in fifty conflict affected countries and territories it includes thirty nine chapters written by more than seventy researchers diplomats military personnel and practitioners from governmental intergovernmental and nongovernmental organizations the book highlights the mutually reinforcing relationship between natural resource management and good governance natural resource management is crucial to rebuilding governance and the rule of law combating corruption improving transparency and accountability engaging disenfranchised populations and building confidence after conflict at the same time good governance is essential for ensuring that natural resource management can meet immediate needs for post conflict stability and development while simultaneously laying the foundation for a sustainable peace drawing on analyses of the close relationship between governance and natural resource management the book explores lessons from past conflicts and ongoing reconstruction efforts illustrates how those lessons may be applied to the formulation and implementation of more effective governance initiatives and presents an emerging theoretical and practical framework for policy makers researchers practitioners and students governance natural resources and post conflict peacebuilding is part of a global initiative to identify and analyze lessons in post conflict peacebuilding and natural resource management the project has generated six books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers other books in this series address high value resources land water livelihoods and assessing and restoring natural resources this book contains ten chapters and constitutes an attempt to discuss some of the key areas of governance in the country this text posits three main arguments first that promoting democratic good governance in sierra leone is an imperative that should be embarked upon by any government if it is to ensure socioeconomic and political development on the one hand and peace and security on the other second that the process of promoting democratic good governance will not be an easy task and this is why any government should strive to be vigilant and extricate the country from dependence the fact remains that a successful good governance environment in sierra leone will depend on economic development third that governance should be not only enhanced through ensuring adequate capacity but also constantly monitored and it should be a permanent phenomenon the need to strengthen links between and among the government civil society and the private sector cannot be overemphasized this is necessary to ensure the dynamism that should characterize a good governance environment this environment should include a new sierra leonean psyche that of the interests of the state first anchored in attitudinal and behavioral change in this book the author also attempts to determine how far sierra leone has gone in its practice of democratic good governance and the challenges it is facing in trying to do so he also makes recommendations on how these challenges could be surmounted how can a population influence decision making on post conflict reconstruction this book explores the international legal framework for post conflict popular governance this book explores the challenges of the governance and public policy in the midst and after conflicts revolutions and civil wars in the middle east and africa as anywhere else the task of rebuilding peace and institutionalizing stability in countries experiencing a conflict or just emerging from it is daunting uncertain and context specific yet focusing on the middle east and africa is of particular relevance as these two regions feature the highest numbers of inter and intra state conflicts on the one hand and the central states are more often contested than in the rest of world regions the first half of the book proposes different cases addressing the fundamental challenge of inclusion and cohesion as well as the recurring issue of exclusion in conflict affected situations with four different cultural and institutional settings the second half of the book offers more theoretical insights and proposed pathways to develop more inclusive and peaceful governance settings in africa the middle east and beyond this edited book has been designed to be a helpful contribution to the analysis of conflict and post conflict governance and peacebuilding to do so it deploys different lenses of social sciences especially public policy and international relations but also benefits from social psychology political anthropology and other disciplines that enable a more comprehensive understanding of the multifaceted complex and dynamic issues at play post conflict societies are commonly constructed as weak fragile and failed states economic recovery risks of renewed violent conflict natural resource degradation and poverty alleviation become prioritized agendas of donor countries and international institutions billions of dollars on development policy and governance reform have been invested however misapplication ineffectiveness and foreign aid dependency have become a controversial debate on whose policy whose governance and whose outcomes to understand the problems the author employs a blend of social constructionism and discourse theory to establish a platform for understanding and discussing hegemonic aid conditionality on recipient governments the theories also help analyze how the meanings of post conflict governance are socially economically and politically constructed and used in state building state apparatuses institutional building and policy making process he reveals that the philosophical and theoretical knowledge that underlies the interface between the mode of governance and policy design create the consensus of values norms and indicators between experts public servants donors and communities in post conflict settings the author also shares illuminating case studies by way of his considerable wealth of experience leading reconstructive efforts in afghanistan and cambodia have arab uprisings opened space for deeper grassroots driven decentralization reforms in the region what are the optimum designs sequencing and models of decentralization for countries in political transition while political discourse in the region uniformly emphasizes reforming state institutions decentralization reform agendas have unfolded along contrasting trajectories across arab transition countries both contextual and historical dynamics seem to shape visions for the orientation and pace of decentralization reforms as well as the empirical feasibility of shifting power relations among the various tiers of state administration drawing on findings from field research and recent analyses this study argues that uprisings have created stronger momentum for revisiting the question of decentralization reforms in libya and yemen where the very nature of the state is being redefined compared to the cases of egypt and tunisia where all stakeholders agree on preserving the unitary state model in the latter cases while there is evidence that new advocacy movements focused on reforming local government structures have emerged they have thus far remained elite led grassroots activism at local community levels has served to empower new actors who in some cases have been successful at extracting concessions from local authorities these efforts however predominantly focus on improving access to public services within the existing context of centralized state structures and seem often to have failed to gain the trust of local community members as potential partners in local governance building on focus group discussions among working class residents in greater cairo and on interviews with egyptian political elites the study highlights an emerging critical gap between youth expectations and on the other hand the envisioned plans of the political elite while youth are more likely to demand deeper reforms across all three dimensions of decentralization administrative fiscal and political political elites disagree not only on which particular dimension s of reforms should be implemented but also on the urgency of decentralization during early phases of political transformation the latter s wide range of views reflect deep concerns over political capture by traditional elites weakness of political parties as well as potentially detrimental impacts of reforms on state capacity and the nation state s territorial integrity the study concludes by drawing lessons from france s successful contract based record of decentralization and presents policy recommendations for countries that have emerged from the arab uprisings with relatively strong centralized state structures and cohesive national identities publisher s description
