in religion and the arts history and method diane apostolos cappadona presents an overview of the 19th century origins of this discrete field of study and its methodological journey to the present day through issues of repatriation museum exhibitions and globalization apostolos cappadona suggests that the fluidity and flexibility of the study of religion and the arts has expanded like an umbrella since the 1970s and the understanding that art was simply a visual exegesis of texts to now support the study of material popular and visual culture as well as gender she also delivers a careful analysis of the evolution of thought from traditional iconographies to the transformations once scholars were influenced by response theory and challenged by globalization and technology religion and the arts history and method offers an indispensable introduction to the questions and perspectives essential to the study of this field a reprint with new introduction of the harper torch edition of 1970 the famous introductory lectures collected in this volume represent the distillation of hegel s mature views on the three most important activities of spirit and have the further advantage shared by his lectures in general of being more comprehensible than those works of his published during his lifetime a new introduction select bibliography analytical table of contents and the restoration in the section headings of the outline of hegel s lectures make this new edition particularly useful and welcome this book illuminates the interconnections between politics and religion through the lens of artistic production exploring how art inspired by religion functioned as a form of resistance directed against both romanian national communism 1960 1989 and latterly consumerist society and its global market it investigates the critical tactical and subversive employments of religious motifs and themes in contemporary art pieces that confront the religious affair in post communist romania in doing so it addresses a key gap in previous scholarship which has paid little attention to the relationship between religious art and political resistance in communist central and south east europe africa s religious and artistic traditions constitute a primary example of its intellectual and cultural vitality artistic works play a vital role especially where oral traditions dominate in communicating ideas about the relationship between the human spiritual and natural worlds this work is a comparative study of africa s visual and performing arts concentrating on their geographical material and gendered diversity and focusing on the relation of these arts to african religion the author combines ethnographic and art historical methodology but does not assume any prior knowledge of african art or african religion the text seeks a greater understanding of the philosophical and religious aspects of african art thus challenging western perceptions of what is important in terms of artistic representation this approach reveals the transformative capacities and multi dimensionality of african art the work also highlights the changes brought about by christianity islam and the newer religious movements in post colonial africa religion in its most authentic part is an art form religion does what art does this idea is richly illustrated and supported by materials of diverse origin the vast range of the author s experience in the arts and in religious texts and works of aesthetics allows him to lay hold of a great mass of disparate material and to bring out new dimensions in all of it he always has just the example he needs at his fingertips a tibetan buddhist text next to a french impressionist painting and a remark about early banogu counterpoint and each example is seen in a new and interesting way through this gentle yoking together of heterogeneous materials common roots are discovered most studies of art and religion describe and explain them as data thomas martland identifies them as expressions of ideals and asks what they are when they are authentic rather than merely what they are when they are self identified as art and religion this is an identification through assessment not an aristotelian classification and the means of assessment are provided in this genuinely interdisciplinary work clack breaks new ground by using detailed explorations of the phenomena of drug use romantic love and the enjoyment of art in order to throw light on the meaning and nature of religion this book will be vital reading for anyone concerned with the fundamental questions of religious belief the psychoanalytic approach to culture or simply the unavoidable existential problems lying at the very heart of human life music and ethical responsibility argues that musical experience involves encounters with others and ethical responsibilities arise from those encounters an ongoing seminar led by ronald thiemann of harvard divinity school took the arts as the point of departure for consideration of the role of religion in public life particularly the ways in which lutheran intellectuals and academics might participate the emergence of religious meaning in the arts especially music and literature and the nature of the spirituality that results are considered by the seminar participants curt thompson gregg muilenburg bruce heggen carol gilbertson kathryn p duffy karen black kathryn ananda owens james hanson what is art the arts establishment has a simple answer anything is art if a reputed artist or expert says it is though many people are skeptical about the alleged new art forms that have proliferated since the early twentieth century today s critics claim that all such work however incomprehensible is art a groundbreaking alternative to this view is provided by philosopher novelist ayn rand 1901 1982 best known as the author of the fountainhead and atlas shrugged rand also created an original and illuminating theory of art which confirms the widespread view that much of today s purported art is not really art at all in what art is torres and kamhi present a lucid introduction to rand s esthetic theory contrasting her ideas with those of other thinkers they conclude that in its basic principles her account is compelling and is corroborated by evidence from anthropology neurology cognitive science and psychology the authors apply rand s theory to a debunking of the work of prominent modernists and postmodernists from mondrian jackson pollock and samuel beckett to john cage merce cunningham and other highly regarded postmodernist figures finally they explore the implications of rand s ideas for the issues of government and corporate support of the arts art law and art education this is one of the most interesting provocative and well written books on aesthetics that i know while fully accessible to the general reader what art is should be of great interest to specialists as well ayn rand s largely unknown writings on art especially as interpreted released from dogma and smoothed out by torres and kamhi are remarkably refined moreover her ideas are positively therapeutic after a century of artistic floundering and aesthetic quibbling anyone interested in aesthetics in the purpose of art or in the troubling issues posed by modernism and post modernism should read this book randall r dipert author of artifacts art works and agency torres and kamhi effectively situate rand s long neglected esthetic theory in the wider history of ideas they not only illuminate her significant contribution to an understanding of the nature of art they also apply her ideas to a trenchant critique of the twentieth century s advanced art their exposure of the invalidity of abstract art is itself worth the price of admission chris matthew sciabarra author of ayn rand the russian radical rand s aesthetic theory merits careful study and thoughtful criticism which torres and kamhi provide their scholarship is sound their presentation is clear and their judgment is refreshingly free from the biases that rand s supporters and detractors alike tend to bring to considerations of her work stephen cox university of california san diego the field of art and religion is fast becoming one of the most dynamic areas of religious studies uniquely the art of the sacred explores the relationship between religion and the visual arts and vice versa within christianity and other major religious traditions it identifies and describes the main historical theological sociological and aesthetic dimensions of religious art with particular attention to popular as well as high culture and within societies of the developing world it also attempts to locate and predict the forms and functions of such art in a changing contemporary context of obligation modernity secularism and fundamentalism the author concentrates on four chief dimensions where religious art and religious belief converge the iconographic the didactic the institutional and the aesthetic this clear well organised and imaginative treatment of the subject should prove especially attractive to students of religion and visual culture as well as to artists and art historians
